Jake Walters is a tenor from Tucson, Arizona, striving to change how we view both classical, and popular music. Mr. Walters, a Tucson native, has performed in countless musical theatre productions ranging from professional-grade performances, to smaller, community pieces. These include Stephen Sondheim's Into The Woods, playing Jack, Charles Strouse's Bye Bye Birdie, playing Mr. MacAfee, and various roles in several runs of musical adaptations of Charles Dickens' A Christmas Carol, at The Comedy Playhouse.

More recently, he has appeared in several University of Arizona Opera productions, such as covering for L'Aumônier in Poulenc's Dialogues of the Carmelites, and as Orpheus in Orphée aux enfers by Offenbach. Additionally, he was a featured soloist in University of Arizona Symphonic Choir's recent performance of Mozart's Coronation Mass. Mr. Walters also took part in Lawrence Opera Theatre's 2016 and 2017 Seasons, playing "First Sailor" in an avant-garde presentation of Henry Purcell's Dido and Aeneas, and covering "Monostatos" in Mozart's The Magic Flute, in Lawrence, Kansas. Mr. Walters was also recently awarded 2nd place in his division of the 2018 NATS competition, and also tied for 2nd place in the 2018 Amelia Rieman competition.

In addition to his performances in opera and musical theatre, Mr. Walters also writes, produces, and performs his own music. He has performed in numerous venues across Arizona, both as a solo artist, and with his band, Creating the Scene. His stage presence has been compared to the likes of Freddie Mercury, Mick Jagger, and David Bowie.

He is currently pursuing a Bachelor of Music in Voice Performance at the University of Arizona Fred Fox School of Music, having the privilege of studying under the direction of soprano, Yunah Lee, as well as Dr. Hugo Vera, who previously performed with the Metropolitan Opera. He also works as music director for Gaslight Youth Theatre and Troubadour Theatre. Mr. Walters intends to continue to pursue performing and writing his own compositions.
